M: Visitors, may I have your attention please? This is Anderson Thompson, manager of Benjiville Aquarium. While enjoying your time at our aquarium, we kindly request that you not hit the glass walls of the aquarium tanks. Even light knocking can be quite loud for the fish in the water. The vibrations from the knocking can make the fish stressed, and they might become sick. So, to keep our fish healthy, we ask you not to hit the glass walls of the aquarium tanks. Thank you for your cooperation.

2. 대화를 듣고, 여자의 의견으로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

M: Hey, Laura. Mom asked me what we're going to buy for our newborn baby cousin.

W: Oh, yeah. What should we get? Did Mom suggest anything?

M: She said a hat might be a good choice.

W: That sounds good. As far as I know, wearing a hat helps maintain babies' body temperature.

M: It's the beginning of summer, though. Do you think the baby will really need one?

W: Yes. Without a hat on, the baby might get cold when the air conditioning is on.

M: I didn't consider that. Now I understand why I've seen so many babies wearing hats indoors in the summer.

W: Right. Hats help to keep babies' body temperature steady.

M: Okay. Let's find the cutest hat in the world for our baby cousin!

W: Absolutely.

I think many of you may be having a similar problem. If this is true for you, you need a hobby that can help clear your mind. For example, you can try going camping, gardening, or playing a musical instrument. And any kind of exercise, such as hiking, can also be good. How about clearing your mind with one of these hobbies? We'll be right back after the break with more tips. Stay tuned!

M: Yeah. That's me.

W: You look so cool in the costume.

M: Thanks. Do you see the two paintings on the wall? I painted them myself.

W: Wow, they look great. I also like the tea pot on the table. Where did you get that?

M: I bought it at a flea market. I also got the flower-patterned rug at the market.

W: They all fit the setting well. Oh, there's a cat under the chair. I think it's so cute.

W: Uh-huh, I did. It should be connected by the move-in date. And I already put stickers on the chairs we will throw away.

M: Great. Oh, I still have to wrap the crystal vases.

[16~17] 다음을 듣고, 물음에 답하십시오.

W: Hello, students. Have you ever thought about what's happening in the insect world when it's raining? Today, we're going to talk about what insects do on a rainy day. Some insects come outside from their home. For example, cockroaches living in drains have to escape from there to survive when it rains. It's because their homes get flooded easily. They leave, so they will not drown. To give another example, mosquitos come out in the rain to lay eggs. Rainy days are the best time since newborn mosquitos need water to grow. However, other insects have to hide to stay alive. For instance, some types of ants hide themselves to get away from the rain because their body temperature drops when it rains. If they get cold during a rainy day, their bodies can freeze and they could die. Also, some kinds of flies go underground to avoid the rain. When their wings get wet, they can't fly, so they have to find some place to stay dry. As we can see, the rain affects various insects' behavior in different ways. Now, let's watch a video.
