

고2_ 2303[기출문제] 24

다음 글의 빈칸에 들어갈 말로 가장 적절한 것은?¹ [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you do it _____, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning.

- ① at the expense of being who you really are
- ② via struggling to your old and unbalanced habit
- ③ without any consultant from experts in the field
- ④ being unwilling to adjust yourself to technological trend
- ⑤ on behalf of someone concerning group's decision and investment

다음 빈칸에 들어갈 말로 가장 적절한 것은?² [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you _____, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

- ① give up being who you really are
- ② try to show others who you really are
- ③ stop caring about others' judgments about you
- ④ are spending your energy on finding out who you are
- ⑤ abandon the mindset that hiding personality is the best policy

주어진 글 다음에 이어질 글의 순서로 가장 적절한 것은?<sup>3</sup>

[23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention.

(A) You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that.

(B) But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning.

(C) You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged.

- ① (A) - (C) - (B)    ② (B) - (A) - (C)
 ③ (C) - (A) - (B)    ④ (B) - (C) - (A)
 ⑤ (C) - (B) - (A)

다음 글에서 전체 흐름과 관계없는 문장은?<sup>4</sup> [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. ㉠You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. ㉡But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. ㉢You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. ㉣Therefore, individuals who satisfy others are good leaders who can stay in the same position for a long time. ㉤But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

- ① a    ② b    ③ c    ④ d    ⑤ e

다음 글의 밑줄 친 부분 중, 문맥상 낱말의 쓰임이 적절하지 않은 것은?⁵ [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because everybody does not even @perceive you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly @aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses. Then you start ©revealing your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing @yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you @stop growing and winning. Permanently.

- ① a    ② b    ③ c    ④ d    ⑤ e

주어진 글 다음에 이어질 글의 순서로 가장 적절한 것은?⁶ [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention.

(A) But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

(B) You start worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you want to hide your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that.

(C) Because no one even knows you're there you can mess up and be rough and get dirty. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged.

- ① (A) - (B) - (C)    ② (B) - (A) - (C)
 ③ (B) - (C) - (A)    ④ (C) - (A) - (B)
 ⑤ (C) - (B) - (A)

다음 글의 밑줄 친 부분 중, 낱말의 쓰임이 적절하지 않은 것은?7 [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one @cares. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being @invisible. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your @true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of @pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you @begin apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

- ① a    ② b    ③ c    ④ d    ⑤ e

다음 글의 흐름으로 보아, 주어진 문장이 들어가기에 가장 적절한 곳은?8 [23년 3월 24번]

There is nothing wrong with that.

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. (A) You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. (B) But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. (C) You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. (D) But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. (E) When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

- ① A    ② B    ③ C    ④ D    ⑤ E

다음 글의 빈칸에 들어갈 말로 가장 적절한 것은?<sup>9</sup> [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses. and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long.

_____ ,
you stop growing and you stop winning.
Permanently.

- ① If you become aware of your limitations
- ② Unless you make an effort to please others
- ③ When you become overconfident after winning
- ④ When you begin to conceal your authentic self
- ⑤ If you fail to be an effective leader or role model

주어진 글 다음에 이어질 글의 순서로 가장 적절한 것은?<sup>10</sup> [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention.

(A) You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that.

(B) You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged.

(C) But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long.

- ① (A)-(B)-(C) ② (B)-(A)-(C) ③ (B)-(C)-(A)
- ④ (C)-(A)-(B) ⑤ (C)-(B)-(A)

다음 글의 요지로 가장 적절한 것은?<sup>11</sup> [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

- ① 자신의 약점을 인정하면 동료들의 도움을 얻기 쉽다.
- ② 변화를 받아들이지 못하면 자신의 성장에 해가 된다.
- ③ 다른 사람이 존중하는 지도자도 실수와 약점은 있다.
- ④ 지나친 자의식은 자신의 성장에 방해가 된다.
- ⑤ 주변의 다양한 환경을 이용하면 언젠가 성공할 수 있다.

다음 글을 한 문장으로 요약하고자 한다. 빈칸 (A)와 (B)에 들어갈 말로 가장 적절한 것은?<sup>12</sup> [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

↓

The perception of being observed by others after winning causes you to (A)_____ your true personality and to make decisions that please others rather than yourself, ultimately (B)_____ your growth and your win.

- | (A)        | (B)          |
|------------|--------------|
| ① stifle   | thwarting    |
| ② manifest | hampering    |
| ③ restrain | facilitating |
| ④ disclose | deterring    |
| ⑤ obscure  | spurring     |

다음 글의 밑줄 친 (A)가 의미하는 바로 가장 적절한 것은?<sup>13</sup> [23년 3월 24번]

Winning turns on a self-conscious awareness that others are watching. It's a lot easier to (A)move under the radar when no one knows you and no one is paying attention. You can mess up and be rough and get dirty because no one even knows you're there. But as soon as you start to win, and others start to notice, you're suddenly aware that you're being observed. You're being judged. You worry that others will discover your flaws and weaknesses, and you start hiding your true personality, so you can be a good role model and good citizen and a leader that others can respect. There is nothing wrong with that. But if you do it at the expense of being who you really are, making decisions that please others instead of pleasing yourself, you're not going to be in that position very long. When you start apologizing for who you are, you stop growing and you stop winning. Permanently.

- ① discover others' shortcomings
- ② be unaware of what happens
- ③ go unnoticed and act freely
- ④ earn the respect of people
- ⑤ stand under the spotlight

---

정답

- 1 ①
- 2 ①
- 3 ③
- 4 ④
- 5 ③
- 6 ⑤
- 7 ②
- 8 ④
- 9 ④
- 10 ②
- 11 ④
- 12 ①
- 13 ③