“Congratulations!” That was the first word that Steven saw when he opened the envelope that his dad handed to him. He knew that he would win the essay contest. Overly happy, he shouted, “Hooray!” At that moment, two tickets to Ace Amusement Park, the prize, slipped out of the envelope. He picked them up and read the letter thoroughly while sitting on the stairs in front of his house. “Wait a minute! That’s not my name!” he said, (A)_____.

The letter was addressed to his classmate Stephanie, who had also participated in the contest. Reading on, Steven realized the letter had been delivered mistakenly. “Unfortunately,” it should have gone to Stephanie, who was the real winner. He looked at the tickets and then the letter. He had really wanted those tickets. He had planned to go there with his younger sister. Steven was his sister’s hero, and he had bragged to her that he would win the contest. However, if she found out that her hero hadn’t won, she would be terribly (B)_____, and he would feel ashamed.

“If I don’t tell Stephanie, perhaps she will never know,” Steven thought for a moment. He remembered that the winner would only be notified by mail. As long as he kept quiet, nobody would know. So he decided to sleep on it. The next morning, he felt (C)_____ and his dad recognized it right away. “What’s wrong, Son?” asked his dad. Steven was hesitant at first but soon disclosed his secret. After listening attentively to the end, his dad advised him to do the right thing.

After our wonderful breakfast, Rufus went to the barn to find himself a fresh strand of straw that he could use as a toothpick. While he was in there, a loud engine noise filled the air with its heavy mechanical sounds. Rufus poked his head out of the barn for a glance and there in the driveway was a truck that had another machine riding on ①its back. All the animals lined up against the pen and watched with curiosity how ②the machine was unloaded. Since the tractor was parked on the lawn, Rufus decided he would take a closer look at ③it. Lifting the latch on the gate, Rufus strolled over to the tractor and began sniffing it. After a few quick sniffs, Rufus began crying out in mule language to us about how yucky he thought ④it was. "What does it smell like?" asked Moocher. Rufus replied, "It smelled like rubber, gas, oil, paint, and plastic." "Sorry, old boy," exclaimed the farmer, "but this is what I was trying to tell you this morning when I told you how fun it had been working with you." Rufus' mouth hit the ground as he continued explaining. "You see, Rufus, ⑤this tractor is how I'm going to plow the fields from now on. You have done your part for the farm, but now it is time for you. As the farmer hopped on the tractor and drove away, Rufus began to cry in mule language. The rest of us farm animals were shocked at (A)the news and did what was right by joining Rufus in his moment of grief. (B)The farmer thought we were making the noises because we were afraid of the tractor, but we were crying for our friend, Rufus, what just lost his job.
