You've probably heard the expression, "first impressions matter a lot". Life really doesn't give many people a second chance to make a good first impression. ㉠It has been determined that it takes only a few seconds for anyone to assess another individual. ㉡This is very noticeable in recruitment processes, where top recruiters can predict the direction of their eventual decision on any candidate within a few seconds of introducing ㉢themselves. So, a candidate's CV may 'speak' knowledge and competence, but ㉣their appearance and introduction may tell of a lack of coordination, fear, and poor interpersonal skills. In this way, quick judgements are not only relevant in employment matters; ㉤they are equally applicable in love and relationship matters too. On a date with a wonderful somebody who you've painstakingly tracked down for months, subtle things like bad breath or wrinkled clothes may spoil your noble efforts.

- ① ㉠: a good first impression
- ② ㉡: assessing another individual
- ③ ㉢: top recruiters
- ④ ㉣: candidates
- ⑤ ㉤: quick judgements
